ding is that the bride's parents met first at the home of Col. Brady and first at the home of Col. Brady and were later married in his home. The bride was born in Col. Brady's home after her family removed to Cleburne. Texas, while in El Paso on a visit to Col. Brady, she met Mr. Thompson and for the sentiment attached to Col. Brady's home, she came here so that her marriage might be solemnized in the same place where that of her parsing courted.

the same place where that of her parents occurred.

The rooms of the Brady home were slaborately decorated with similar and potted paims. A canopy was made of similar, with a wedding bell of white carnalions suspended from it, and beneath this the couple stood for their marriage vows. Before their entrance, Mrs. Robert Lander rang 'I Love You Truity,' by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Mrs Lander accompanied horself and played the wedding marches.

The bride was accompanied by her father, Henry C. Moore, by whom she was given in marriage. The groom entered with Rev. Mr. Bond. Miss Florence Brady, the only sirl cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor, and Mrs. Roland S. Collins, of Cleburne. Texas, was her mafron of honor.

The bride wore an apple green coat with point with green coat suit, braided with sirt professor.
